

write note of communication system
Communication system is a collection of individual communication networks, transmission system, relay stations, tributary stations, data terminal equipment (DTE) usually capable of interconnections system and interoperation to form an integrated whole.

Advantages of ICT

- ① Globalization: True globalization has come about system.
- ② Cost effective: computerized internet business processes have made many business turn to the internet for increased productivity, greater profitability, clutter free working conditions and global clientele.
- ③ Storing and protecting information: IT provides a low-cost business options to store and maintain information that may be important from a business or service point of view.

Disadvantages of ICT

- ① Access to damaging information: ICT technology has provided access to damaging information through various websites that host destructive and immoral content.
- ② use employment: while information technology may have streamlined the business process it has also also created job redundancies, downsizing and out-sourcing.

3. Lack of privacy: Through Information Technology may have made communication quicker, easier and more convenient, ~~the~~

Types of ICT

- I Broadcasting
- II Telecommunication
- III Information system
- IV Data network